Iguazu Jesuits and Ibera Marshes

We will make an overland trip to Iguazu rainforest: palmettos, amazing wildlife, spectacular waterfalls; the Jesuit Mission ruins and the Ibera marshes, the second largest marshland in South America. An unforgettable opportunity to listen to mysterious stories about this magical and fascinating land.

Day 1: Arrive in Iguazu (Argentine side)

Arrival and reception at the airport; transfer to the hotel. The Iguazu National Park is the richest biological area in the country. The afternoon will be spent exploring the Argentine side of this World Heritage Site both by train and walking, considered by many, the most spectacular waterfalls on Earth. Two hundred streams appear from the rainforest, forming a myriad of gorgeous falls 70 meters (230 feet high), mixing graciously with the lush surrounding vegetation. Return to the hotel. Accommodation.

Day 2: Iguazu Falls (Brazilian side)

Breakfast. In the morning, visit to the Brazilian side to enjoy the panoramic view of the falls and the rainforest enhanced by fascinating rainbows. Return to the hotel. Accommodation.

Day 3: Jesuit Mission - Iberá Marshlands

Breakfast. Drive southward to the imposing San Ignacio Miní Jesuit Mission that dates back to the XVII century. Then we will continue to Iberá Marshes-Subtropical Paradise Colonia Carlos Pellegrini, close to the Iberá Marshlands in Corrientes province, which are double the size of the Everglades in Florida, US. Recently, these inaccessible marshes have protected a wide range of wildlife and are considered one of the most spectacular natural regions in South America, having been covered by National Geographic and BBC. Accommodation in an exclusive and comfortable inn. Dinner.

Day 4: Iberá Marshes

Breakfast. Explore this fascinating region, its ponds, marshes, aquatic vegetation, islands, woods, by day and night, on foot, on boats poled by "gauchos" and game drives. We should expect to find capybaras: largest rodent on Earth, weighing up to 80 kg (176 pounds), caymans, marsh deer, howlers and carayá monkeys, aquatic turtles, abundant and varied water fowls (jabiru storks, southern screamers, jacanas and rheas among others), butterflies, wild flowers, birds and much more. Lunch. Dinner. Return to the hotel. Accommodation.

Day 5: Fly out from Iguazu Falls

Breakfast. Transfer to Posadas airport.
