Richard Danbury

The Inca Trail, Cuzco & Machu Picchu

2005, PAPER, 288 PAGES, $19.95

A practical guide to planning and walking the Inca Trail with good maps, lots of travel information, photographs and a brief overview of Inca culture and history. Not just for those hiking the Inca Trail, it's an excellent compact guide to Cusco, Machu Picchu, Lima and surroundings. This fully revised second edition includes the seven-to-ten day hike to Vilcabamba. (Item no. PRU19)

Carmen Bernard, Paul Bahn

The Incas, People of the Sun

1994, PAPER, 192 PAGES, $12.95

A pocket-size encyclopedia in the acclaimed "Discoveries" series, this jewel of a book features hundreds of archival drawings and photographs, a chronology and long excerpts from the journals of early explorers. It's a guide to the ancient monuments, daily life of the Incas, and history of exploration. (Item no. AND03)

Hiram Bingham

Lost City of the Incas, The Story of Machu Picchu and its Builders

2001, PAPER, 263 PAGES, $15.95

A first-rate tale of adventure by the man who rediscovered Machu Picchu in 1911. This classic account is a gripping story of exploration, archaeology and natural history -- and still an outstanding overview of the site itself. With original expedition photographs. Originally published in 1952, the book is still an excellent account, not only of the expedition but also of the site itself. (Item no. AND05)

Max Milligan, John Hemming

Realm of the Incas

2001, HARD COVER, 240 PAGES, $45.00

A spirited, photographic tour of the culture, monuments and festivals of the Inca. Milligan, who has traveled widely through Peru, goes beyond the typical pictures of Cusco and Machu Picchu in this stunning collection of photographs, all taken in natural light. Hemming (Conquest of the Incas) provides the lengthy forward. Milligan, who has a fondness for abstract images, includes photographs from the high Andes to the Amazon and coast. You can see some of the images at maxmilligan.com. (Call 800-342-2164 or go to <http://reading.longitudebooks.com/LD2588> to order.

Lima 2000

Inca Trail: Machu Picchu, Sacred Valley, Cusco Map

2000, MAP, $11.95

A full-color topographic map of the route of the Inca trail at the excellent scale of 1:50,000. Printed on both sides, it includes small inset maps of Cusco, Machu Picchu and Aguas Calientes. (Item no. PRU28)
